The prize fighters are using their notoriety for all it is worth and appear to be willing to go into any kind of an arrangement as long as there is money to be made out of it. Well there is a certain class which likes to cater to this kind of business but they should not try to mix respectability and disrespectability in their every day lives.

Miss Fannie Cook left Sunday morning for Livermore where she will spend several weeks visiting a sister who resides there.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

A Motorman's Family Norrowly Escapes Death at Temescal.

Disastrous Fire.

At an early hour yesterday morning the bell on the Columbia fire house announced in clarion tones that a conflagration was going on.

The firemen were quickly speeding in the direction of the glare in the heavens which indicated that the fire was in the south eastern part of the town. After a run of a short distance the firemen learned that the conflagration was in Temescal so they returned and housed their apparatus. Some of the boys took bicycles and started for the fire where they quickly arrived and found the fire to be on Sumner street iu a cottage occupied by a motor conductor named F. W. Hutchinson and his wife and children.

The fire is supposed to have started from a defective flue, and so rapidly did it burn that the family were not awakened nntil it was all in flames. They escaped in their night clothes just as the roof fell in. Mr. Hutchinson was on the night run and did not arrive at his home until it was in ashes.

The house was valued at about $2500 and was partially insured.

If you intend purchasing go out and select one at once before they are all gone. Every lot is a choice one but some are choicer than others. Remember that you get an absolute deed for a lot 50x130 feet for $50, $10 down and the balance payable in weekly installments of $1 per week. The lots face on the narrow gauge tract and on San Pablo avenue. Merrill, of the Department of Latin of the University will also leave on Tuesday to attend the Philological Conference, to be held in Boston during the month of July.

A cutting scrape is reported to have taken place on University Avenue north of San Pablo, on Saturday evening last, between an Oakland man and a young man belonging in Berkeley. The latter is said to have been cut about the stomach. No arrests have been made and it looks as if the matter was being kept very quiet.

A mention is being made in various newspapers of the fact that David McKinley a brother of the next Pesident of the United States, was formerly in the coal business in Oakland. Long before that time he was in the wood and coal trade on O'Farrell street, between Powell and Mason, San Francisco, and used to take a hand in politics in the Eighth Ward of that city.

After the morning services at St. Marks' Church, there was a meeting of the vestry in conjunction with the congregation. The proposition of making alterations was discussed but final decision was postponed until sometime during the week.

CUPID WINS AGAIN.

Two Young People Struck By His Dart.

LELAND STANFORD LATHROP AND MISS WATSON

Announce Their Engagement the Wedding Will Soon Occur In Berkeley.

To Wed.

The engagement of Leland Stanford Lathrop, son of Charles G. Lathrop and an heir to a large slice of the vast Stanford estate, to Miss Lillian M. Watson of Napa County, who is now visiting in Berkeley, was publicly announced Saturday afternoon.

The wedding will take place next Thursday at the Goodrich residence on Dwight way. The wedding itself will be strictly private, only a few of the immediate relatives and friends having been invited. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. Spaulding of St. John's Church, San Francisco.

Miss Rowena Watson, a sister of the bride, will act as bridesmaid, and Frank Van Ness of San Francisco will serve as groomsman. It is expected that Mrs. Leland Stanford will be present at the ceremony.

For some time past the engagement has been known in a circle of the most intimate friends of the contracting parties, but to the world it has been a profound secret.

With the announcement comes a ripple in the social stream of more than ordinary magnitude, since both bride and groom have long been looked upon as bright stars in the society firmament of San Francisco and Oakland. Both are but a few years over twenty, have rare musical and literary talents, are leaders in the circles in which they move and possessed of much wealth.

The share of the groom in the Stanford estate will run up well into the hundreds of thousands, and the bride has a considerable estate in her own right.

The groom was born in New York State, but received much of his educational training in this State, having graduated from Belmont, after which he attended Harvard for a time. He has traveled to a considerable extent and has been in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company at their offices on Fourth and Townsnd streets for several years and now holds a responsible position.

Getting Nearer The Top.

Not a single day goes by but what the contestants in the telephone and telegraph girls contest for a trip to the Highland Springs sail upward and onward in the list which is to make two hearts glad on the first day of August. A great many of the contestants are holding back their votes so it will be hard to pick the winner until the last votes are counted. There are also some who have not yet entered the contest who are getting subscriptions who intend to come in with a surprise before the time for the contest closes. No one has a cinch on the trip and consequently some lively rustling may be expected during the coming month. The girls are all anxious to go and we are constrained to believe that the winners will have an enormous lot of votes.

The vote today is as follows:

Lelia C. Brackett, Berkeley	3015
Miss Froda Louders, Berkeley	1323
Alice L. Cain, Berkeley	954
Mrs. R. F. Fleming, Oakland	559
Miss Comstock, Oakland	94

A GOOD TIME.

Turn To The Stage

All Berkeley is in expectancy over the theatrical entertainment which will be given by the Cresent Athletic Club in the gymnasium Tuesday evening. The athletes, who are termed Thespians, have been diligently rehearsing for the past three weeks under S. H. Metcalf, and now believe they have mastered sufficient of the stage difficulties to give a very creditable performance. Judging from the number who have obtained tickets, the attendance on Tuesday night will be large.

The play is "The Two Advertisements," with this cast of characters: Samuel Jordan (a vain "young" old widower) Dr. J. C. Anthony; George Jordan, (his son, a romantic lover with a consuming passion), Walter A. Gompertz; Marcus Brass, (an eccentric theatrical agent with wonderful assurance), George L. Wilcox; Helen Jordan, (with a "heart and soul for drama"), Miss Cora Fiske; Clarinda Hastings, (who "does enjoy making the lords of creation ridiculous") Mrs. J. C. Anthony; Lucy, (a pert, positive maid, Mrs. H. H. Metcalf.

Following "The Two Advertisements," there will be dancing. C. W. Klein has been chosen floor manager.

No Flies On Them

In the GAZETTE advertising contest, the boys and girls are working like beavers and a glance at the list will show that there is but very little difference in the votes of any of them.

There should be dozens more of the boys and girls in this contest and we believe that they will tie in a few days. It only takes but little exertion to win one of the prizes in this contest. All a boy or girl has to do is to cut out the coupons and take them to any advertiser, and when they make a purchase, have the advertiser sign it and send it to this office.

The vote to-day is as follows:

E. Hadlin	187
Melany Lanterbach	645
Ollie Dean	681
Carrie Weidinger	[illegible]
Mabel Herzog	350
B. Muldowney	112
Willie Kearney	200

If all the mints of the country were started up coining silver dollars, the only thing that would put them in circulation would be business. FIGHTING DEATH.

With Two Bullets in Her Body Which the Doctors Cannot Find.

The Probing Unsuccessful.

Dr. Johnson made an unsuccessful attempt to locate the bullets in the body of Manda Calloway, the colored woman who was shot last Wednesday evening by Mary Wagner, also colored. She was shot in the breast, arm and hip, and only the bullet which entered the hip has been found. The one which pierced the arm is supposed to have ranged upward in to the shoulder, and the other is supposed to be embedded somewhere around the lungs. The surgeon probed for some time, but was unable to find the leaden pellets.

The patient is progressing favorably and unless the case takes some unexpected turn, will recover. She is not out of danger, however.

The Position Is Wanted

New York, June 19.—A Times special from Washington says: One of the most agreeable sea billets is that of commander-in-chief of the Pacific station where Admiral Beardslee is on duty. The Admiral's two years' tour of duty on the station will expire in August, and he has asked for another year's duty in command of the fleet. This is likely to be refused, owing to the large number of officers who are anxious for sea duty and who are entitled to some such command by virtue of their rank and their service ashore.

McKinley Notified

Canton, O., June 29.—The committee, consisting of one member from each State and Territory, selected at St. Louis convention to convey to Major McKinley official notification of his nomination arrived in Canton on a special train from Cleveland at 11:30 o'clock this morning. It was met at the station by the reception committee, and driven in open cariages to Major McKinley's residence, accompanied by mounted escorts.

Senator Thurston arose and addressing McKinley announced to him that he was the choice of the National Republican Convention for President. He predicted the overwhelming victory of the Republican party.

In response McKinley made an address formally accepting the nomination and strongly indorsing the Republican platform.

He asserted that the Republican party had in the past given prosperity to the country, and he predicted that it would do so in the future.

Cautionary Signals.

Words of caution cannot be given too often and we call the attention again to the fact that the great patriotic holiday of the year is close at hand when the young American delights to vent his enthusiasm through the medium of fireworks. Each year more or less accidents occur from carelessness. Many are injured by unexpected explosions and fires take place trom the want of care in using firecrackers, bombs and things of this kind.

Owing to the absence of rain everything gets dry and becomes very susceptible to fire sparks. The garden hose should be put on and fixed all ready for immediate use. Dry grass should be removed from the immediate neighborhood of all buildings. In fact all precautions possible should be taken against a fire breaking out. While our various fire companies are ever on the alert they should never be called into action when it can be avoided.

People should also look well to the securing of their personal property. Thieves are always about but are always more alert on holidays than at any other time on account of people being away from their homes on such occasions.

The Town Trustees have provided for extra men to be on the watch at the different engine houses for cases of emergency and our people should also be just as particular. We trust no accidents or robberies will occur on the 4th of July in Berkeley this year.

Quite a large amount of street work is now being advertised in the GAZETTE. Our residents should take notice and find out whether they are directly interested or not. All of the proposed work is necessary and so much as possible should be completed before the rainy season sets in.

Call at F. W. Hesemeyer's drug store, corner of San Pablo and Klinkner avenues Golden Gate, for pure drugs, toilet articles and perfumery. Prescriptions carefully compounded. May 27 m1

The newspapers are now being filled with the expressions of Corbett and Sharkey as they are used respectively against each other, and of the opinions of this sporting man and that sporting man and we suppose that the public will have to endure this for the next six months, at the end of which time it is said the fight must come off. Some enterprising money-makers proposed that it should come off on the Catalina Island, but Governor Budd says it shall not come off there. We would suggest that the Govenor reconsider his intention of stopping the fight and suggest that he have inserted in the articles that the fight must occur within 60 days and that it must be kept up without cessation until both of the combatants are finished. He might announce that all other prize fights could occur there on the same terms. Should he issue such a proclamation, we believe that California would be safe hereafter from the presence of prize fighters.

Miss Wade left for Appligate this morning.

DONT LIKE HIM.

We find now a very good reason why William McKinley of Ohio should be elected President of the United States, and that is because England does not want him elected. The London Times which voices the sentiment of the English Government and the English people, in a recent issue stated that the election of William McKinley to the Presidency of the United States would be one of the greatest calamities that could overtake England. It says that the election of McKinley means the closing of the English shops and manufactories; that it means the throwing out of employment of thousands of English mechanics who are now employed in making goods that are sold to the United States under the free trade tariff at prices so low that American manufacturers and laborers cannot compete with them.

McKinley is known to be such an ardent protectionist that the Times fears that it can get nothing into this country without the payment of high duty and it says that this will not alone injure the manufacturers and the mechanics but it will affect the capitalists and the money-lenders, as with a high tariff the United States Government will not have any need to issue bonds which will be bought up with British gold, and consequently the money question will cut no figure. The Times then states that although the Republican party has adopted a gold plank in its platform it is not binding upon McKinley when he becomes President as then he will become a free agent, and it affects to believe that if Congress should pass a silver bill that McKinley would at once sign the bill and make it a law, and then give as his reason that the American people demanded it and that he was in the Presidential chair to carry out the demands of the people.

We agree with the Times on that latter proposition for we believe that William McKinley is of the people and that he would never set himself above the people but will sign all bills that are passed by Congress that are for the benefit of the people, and this alone will cause him to receive millions of votes in these United States regardless of party and party affiliations.

CLEAR LAKE CARNIVAL.

One of the grandest carnivals ever held on the Pacific Coast, or on any other coast for that matter, will be the Venetian Water Carnival, which will be held on Clear Lake in Lake county, on the Fourth day of July.

No grander lake or scenery can be found anywhere on earth than at Clear Lake in Lake county. Situated as it is between high rolling hills, which roll back to the lofty mountains of the coast range and the Sierras, covered with their mantles of snow, no grander sight was ever mortal man allowed to see. The lake whose waters are as blue as the skies is thirty miles long and twelve miles wide, and it is one of natures diadems, away up from the sea about 5,000 feet.

The good citizens of Lakeport have arranged to give one of the greatest carnivals that it has ever been the lot of people to see, and the Northern Pacific Railroad Company of California, with its characteristic generosity has united with the people of Lakeport to make it a success, and to this end it has issued round trip tickets good on train and stage for a nominal sum, so that everybody can attend. Plenty of accommodations have been provided for all who may desire to attend.

A view of the scenery along the railroad and stageroad is more than worth the cost of attending the carnival. Secure your tickets at the Tiburon ferry and celebrate the 120th anniversary of America's independence at Lakeport.

The GAZETTE desires to thank the citizens of Lakeport, through Mr. W. L. Rideout, the Chairman of the Committee on Promotion, for an invitation to be present.

CAN THEY GIVE THE SECURITY.

The Spanish Chamber of Deputies have unanimously adopted a bill enabling the government to raise the sum of $100,000,000 on the security of the tobacco monopoly, the money to be available for war expenses during the parliamentary recess. The dispatch adds that the Government has completed arrangements for the use of twenty trans Atlantic steamers to transport during the month of August 40,000 reinforcements to Cuba and 60,000 Mauser rifles and also a number of heavy guns to be mounted at the forts at Havana and other points on the island.

The passage of the bill is all right but it is very doubtful under the present condition of affairs whether there are any capitalists willing to make a loan of so much money on such indefinite security.

The Cuban Insurgents seem to be thoroughly aware of all that is going on in Madrid and they are preparing to checkmate any move that the Spaniards may make. The Cubans have many friends in Havana and they seem to come and go just as they see fit despite all of General Weyler's efforts to stop them, and now inform him that it is their purpose to blow the city of Havana up with dynamite.

This threat has almost paralyzed General Weyler and his troops for they do not know where the insurgents will strike first. Already General Weyler's army is panic stricken, and threaten to desert and join the Cuban forces. The people of Havana are frenzied with fear, and those who can afford to do so are sending their families to the United States.

It looks very much to us as though the rebellion was nearing its end and that the Cubans will be victorious. They are gaining in strength and accumulating the munitions of war every day, while on the other hand the cost to the Spanish government, to maintain the troops now in Cuba has practically bankrupted the government, and their efforts to send 40,000 more troops to Cuba will be a failure, as they will not be able to raise the money necessary.

Now is the time for Cleveland to step in and recognize Cuba and stop the dreadful carnage that is about to begin on the island of Cuba. It has been bad enough in the past, but it promises to be so dreadful in the future that the wrath of God will fall upon the nation that can and will not step in and put a stop to it.

NIGHT ON SHIPBOARD.

The Regular Duties and the Time For General Relaxation.

The "first call" is sounded again five minutes before sundown, when the ensign and the jack halyards are manned, and a staylight made ready for hoisting to indicate the ship's whereabouts during the night. Then the color call follows at sundown as the flag is lowered, and saluted by all as it reaches the deck. The assembly is then sounded for evening quarters and muster, but there is no drill.

As a rule, it is just after sunset when the bugle call is sounded to "stand by hammocks." That brings all the crew on deck, and they stand in silence close out to the ship's side beside the hammock nettings, in two ranks facing the stern, until the boatswain's mate reports to the officer of the deck, "All up and aft." The latter then orders, "Uncover!—pipe down!" and in obedience to this order and the boatswain's whistle the nettings are thrown open, and the hammocks are served out and taken below to their proper places. Each hammock has printed on it a number, and that same number is on the hooks below decks where that hammock has to be swung, so that each man sleeps in the same place every night, and that place is called his "billet."

Unless, now, a boat is called away there will be no more bugle calls until five minutes of 9 o'clock. The period is one of complete relaxation, and is spent by the sailors in smoking, spinning yarns, singing, playing on musical instruments, and dancing. At 8:55 the first call is again sounded as a warning to the crew to prepare to turn into their hammocks and go to sleep. Then at 9 o'clock comes the call known as "tattoo."

This tattoo is the survival of an old custom. In the "old navy" it used to last 15 minutes, and was performed with drum and fife, playing all manner of airs and quicksteps according to the fancy or ingenuity of the drummer and fifer. It is even said to have been handed down from a period of superstition, when they used to make a hullabaloo after dark to drive the devils out of the ship. At the last note of tattoo the ship's bell is struck twice for 9 o'clock, and the boatswain's whistle sounds, "Pipe down." Every man must then turn into his hammock, whether he is sleepy or not, for an inspection is made by the master at arms to see that all have done so. Then sounds that last, long, mournful call, "taps."—Lieutenant John M. Elliott, in St. Nicholas.

Companions of the noble orders take rank immediately after the knights of the same order, their precedence among themselves being arranged by a complicated but well understood system.

DOROTHY.

When Dorothy was twenty-four,
I was, I must confess,
But twenty, yet for this I swore
I loved her none the less.
What though some saucy maiden teased,
Or ancient one cried, "Shame!"
Might I not marry, as I pleased
If Shakespeare did the same?

Although I know she favored me,
For so she oft had said,
This would she have no other see,
Nor promise me to wed.
Indeed I took her much to task
For flirting. "Very true,"
She answered, smiling. "Thus I mask
My preference for you."

And then I fancied—hateful thought—
Some other might obtain
The kiss that I myself had sought
A thousand times in vain.
My arguments upon this head
She found of little savor.
"You jealous child, you know," she said,
"That kissing goes by favor."

One day I met her, face to face,
With Dorkins, arm in arm,
So like it was to an embrace
I viewed them with alarm.
She saw me, started, giggled, blushed.
Then, pointing with her fan,
"There's Tom. He's fond of me," she gushed.
"Ask him to be best man!"
—Pearson's Weekly.

THE TURN OF A CARD.

It has been whispered at various times and denied as frequently that Billy Deutsch won $100,000 on the turn of a single card. The story will here be repeated as if it fell from the lips of the greatest gambler of his day. After varying vagaries of fortune Deutsch found himself in Paris possessed of great wealth. This led to ugly and envious remarks in all the clubs of the French capital until the American determined to put an end for once and for ever to all criticisms of his conduct and his courage.

This is how he told the story to one who now repeats it:

"I caused it to be announced in every important baccarat room in Paris that if any one man or any combination of men would wager any sum from 100,000 to 500,000 francs on one single hand—not a deal, mind you—in baccarat, I would stake a like amount and would give four days' time for the consideration of the challenge and for opportunity to procure the necessary sum of money. I further declared that I would be in the Washington club at 4:30 o'clock on the following Thursday prepared to meet the man or men who cared to accept the wager. Upon that eventful day I secured 600,000 francs in cash from my Paris banker and placed it in one of my pockets. I made an engagement to take dinner with a party of friends that evening, determined that no matter what the outcome of the game I would not have my pleasures interfered with or my serenity of mind disturbed.

"It was exactly 4:30 o'clock when I entered the Washington club smoking a cigar. The baccarat room was crowded with the most celebrated gamesters of Europe. The male portion of the high world of Paris surged through the anterooms. Representatives from every club in Paris were present. It was a distinguished throng, thrilling with suppressed excitement. Many hostile looks were cast upon me as I entered the apartment, and many hands were extended in friendly greeting. Some one was in the bank, but the deal soon finished, and he retired. The croupier, who knew what was pending, exclaimed in a voice whose tremulousness betrayed his excitement:

"'Messieurs, the bank is for sale.'

"The announcement had scarcely been made when I cried out, 'Open bank!' and no opposition being made I seated myself in the banker's chair. Drawing my money from a pocket I said:

"'Gentlemen, I am prepared to meet wagers to the extent of 500,000 francs, and if it is desired I will add 100,000 francs to that sum.'

"The most famous baccarat players of Paris pushed forward and took seats at the table or standing positions around it, among them being Prince Mallesano, Prince Beran, Prince Kargeorgewitch, Baron Goldschmidt, Count d'Epigney, Albert Wolff of Figaro, Allen Thorndike Rice, then editor of The North American Review; Lorillard Spencer, a large number of players from other clubs and a great many Englishmen whose names I do not recall. All of these gentlemen made wagers varying largely in amount, and when they were done the croupier found that they amounted in the aggregate to a trifle over 500,000 francs. I quietly said that there was still 100,000 francs at the disposal of the players, and inquired if any one wished to increase his bet.

"To this there was no response.

"The croupier counted the sum deposited by me as a banker, and cards were called for. Three sealed packs were produced, opened, the wrappers destroyed, and the cards having been shuffled by the croupier they were handed to me. I cut them in two and hand them first to the punter on my right and then to the one on my left, but neither seemed to have sufficient presence or strength of hand to touch them. I thereupon placed the combined packs alongside of me on the table and called for a garcon to cut them, which was done. Without a tremor I dealt a card to the right, one to the left, one to myself, and having repeated that operation once deposited the cut portion of the deck from which I was dealing on top of the cards which lay before me. Before touching my own hand I covertly studied the faces of the men on either side of me as they examined the cards which had been given them.

"Anxiety, perplexity, doubt, indecision were plainly stamped upon the countenance of the punter of the first tableau. Drops of sweat beaded his brow. He ran his left hand through his hair.

"'He has five,' thought I.

"The man to my left in the second tableau presented a face which betrayed nothing. I could not gain the slightest insight to the workings of his mind. I picked up my cards and found that I had the point five. I offered to give cards, and [illegible] ing for a pasteboard. I threw it on the table face upward.

"It was a nine.

"Despair settled on the man's face. An indrawing sigh from the players who gathered around the first tableau broke the hitherto breathless silence of the room. That nine threatened disaster. The fact of the punter drawing one card showed plainly that he either had five points or less, as the rule of the game would forbid him calling for a card while holding six points or more. If he held five, the drawing of nine would leave him but four, that being the result of the subtraction of ten from the addition of nine to five. If he had four, three, two or one, the drawing of nine would leave him respectively three, two, one or nothing. Only one condition of cards can exist in which the drawing of nine is not only fortunate, but invincible, and that is when the player in his original hand has nothing, or 'baccarat,' a hand being thus denominated when it consists of two face cards, or two tens, or a face card and a ten, each and all of which are equivalent to nothing. But the face of the player on my right showed plainly that no such luck had fallen to his lot.

"The player on my left, or in the second tableau, also elected to take a card. I threw it down face upward.

"It was the ace.

"Here danger threatened. If the punter held five, his hand had become stronger than mine, and if he held four it was at least equal to it. To draw or not to draw was the question which agitated me for only a fleeting moment. I was satisfied that I had won on the first tableau, and even if I lost in the second the winnings and losings would be almost equal. Throwing down my two cards face upward on the table without drawing, I declared in a loud voice: 'Point five.' In a faint voice the punter on my right announced almost inaudibly that his point was four. As I surmised, he had five originally, and the drawing of the nine left him only four as the net result of his playing. The player on my left originally held nothing, or baccarat, and his receiving an ace gave him but one to declare. Therefore I won on both tableaux.

"But consider what might have been. Observe how kind mon ami le diable had been to his business associate. Had the player on my right been wise and drawn no card the punter in the second tableau, who had nothing, would have received that fatal nine and would have been able to declare the highest possible point. That would have left the player in the first tableau with a hand equal to mine, and the result would have been that the bets on that side would have been declared off, and I would have lost everything which had been wagered in the second tableau. But gamesters propose, and fate disposes.

"The scene which followed the declaration of the points was not characterized by any visible excitement, and yet there was an indefinable something in the atmosphere of the apartment which showed that it was surcharged with the tumultuous throbbing of the worst sentiments which ever give impulse to mankind. The muttered curses which followed the crushed form of the unfortunate punter who had drawn the nine spot were none the less fervently bitter for issuing from almost nerveless lips. I did not smile. I am certain my countenance underwent no change whatever. I calmly lighted a cigar while the croupier gathered in the chips, representing a cash value of a little over $100,000 in American money. When they were pushed toward me, I quietly summoned a garcon and asked him to bring me a basket, and into this receptacle I scraped my winnings. I immediately arose from the banker's chair, went directly to the cashier of the club, handed him the chips and received in return their equivalent in money, which I wrapped in a newspaper. Accompanied by two friends, one of whom took a seat on the box of the carriage, I drove at once to Monroe's banking house and deposited my original capital and my winnings, 1,100,000 francs in all. Then I took a drive in an open carriage in the Bois.

"The dinner that evening was charming.

"My friends the enemy did not dine."

That wager of Deutsch's remains to this day the largest single bet ever made in the game of baccarat, and from it sprung his patent of nobility. The following day the Paris Figaro in an article written by Bertie Marriott referred to the American plunger as "le roi du baccarat," the translation of which of course is "the king of baccarat." When the story reached New York, however, Billy's title had been diverted, and he was known as "the prince of baccarat."—Philadelphia Times.

A Tin Mine In Perak.

We came to the edge of the mine, or paddock, as it is called, which, after all, is nothing but a broad, open pit, with sloping sides and perhaps some 40 or 50 feet in depth; a poor thing in the eyes of any one expecting shafts and machinery and the elaboration of western methods, but sufficient for its purpose, as Chinese methods are apt to be. Three hundred men clad in loose blue coats and drawers and plaited sun hats three feet across are digging up the pay dirt at the bottom of the pit with great hoes and putting it on flat wicker baskets. Others catch up the baskets, slung one at each end of a yoke, and balancing the load across the shoulder they carry them up to the level ground (vibrating in time with their steps) by narrow tree trunks, notched with footholes, which are placed at short intervals athwart the sloping sides of the pit.

Having gained the higher level, they throw down their burdens by the wash boxes and descend by other bridges at a steady trot in a silent, orderly and unbroken stream. The men at the wash boxes, which are long, sloping troughs of wood, throw in the dirt, and by raking it back and back under a nicely regulated flow of water they separate the black tin sand from the spoil and shovel it into tubs ready for the smelting house, while the spoil is flung down the slope of the hither side of the paddock.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Gold In Solution.

Millions of dollars in gold, says The Manufacturers' Gazette, are annually taken from rude heaps of base looking quartz by the flowing of water over huge piles of broken rocks that contain the precious metal, and the water used by miners in bringing gold from piles of mineral bearing quartz is charged with a simple chemical which has the potency to dissolve gold and hold it in solution—the sparkling liquid which flows over hundreds of tons of quartz, trickles through the mines and finds its level, laden with gold, is charged with a deadly poison, cyanide of potassium, a drug which ferrets out the minutest particles of the yellowish metal and dissolves them, bringing the precious burden to the vats for conversion into refined gold again. The cyanide process is as noiseless and unerring as the laws of gravitation. The method is based on the fact that even a very weak solution of cyanide of potassium dissolves gold and silver, forming respectively auro-potassic cyanide and argento-potassic cyanide, the solution being separated from the solid material and the gold and silver precipitated in metallic form. Precipitation is effected by the use of fine pieces of zinc so arranged that when the rich waters flow over them the fine gold clusters in rich deposits over the zinc, for which it has an affinity—the gold depositing itself in the form of fine dust on the plates of zinc.

Music and Hair.

Music as a hair tonic seems rather an incongruous combination; but, however much it may jar upon our aesthetic sense, scientists have discovered that the music of certain instruments produces a plentiful growth of hair, and numerous well known musicians are living proofs of this theory.—New York Sun.

Queer Justice.

Prison Visitor—My friend, you ought not to complain; you are here to satisfy the demands of justice.

Prisoner—Not much I am; for mouths my creditors kept urging me to raise money, and then when I raised a check, they put me in the jug. I'm blamed if I can see how you call that justice.—New York Tribune.

Poll Tax and Road Poll Tax must be paid on demand.

Oakland, Mar. 2nd, 1896.

Notice is hereby given that the State Poll Tax and Road Poll Tax for two dollars each for the year 1896 is now due and payable at my office, Room one, Court House, or to a Deputy Assessor.

Sec. 3839 of the Political Code reads as follows:

Every male inhabitant of the State over twenty-one and under sixty years of age, except paupers, insane persons and Indians, must annually pay a Poll Tax of two dollars, provided the same be paid between the

First Monday in March and the First Monday in July, then it shall be three dollars.

Sec. 3846 of the Political Code makes the duty of the Assessor to demand the Tax of every person liable thereto, and on the neglect or refusal of such person to pay, he must collect by seizure and sale of any personal property owned by such person.

Under Sections 429 to 435 every person who refuses to give his own name or the name of any person in his employ, or who in any manner obstructs the Assessor or any of his deputies in the collection of the State Poll Tax, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and liable to a fine of $500 or imprisonment in the County Jail, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Only those persons under twenty-one or over sixty years of age are exempt. Poll tax must be paid on demand.

The same laws apply to the collection of Road Poll Tax as to the collection of State Poll Tax.
